Good for exercising playing up the neck

This song is no stranger to banjo players. It is also part of US history having been written a far back as the late 1800's when it became extremely popular with touring minstrels

Its not the sort of song that has attracted recording artists so it is no surprise that it is not a "chart" or "pop" item. However there are some impressive figures for sheet music sales as it is a popular choir /vocal ensemble number and has been part of countless concerts and shows for over 200 years.
