R. Nelson

A strange song by Ricky Nelson with a bit of a story behind it. It was written by Nelson in 1972 about a concert that didn't go too well. If you are curious look it all up on Google but suffice to say that in the early 70's this was a great favourite with small time groups and bar bands. It had a streak of both Rock and Country and mentions many stars of the period in its lyrics. The Nelson version reached No1 in Canada and the USA and charted in several other countries. The popularity of the song is reflected by the number of cover versions over the years including Johnny Lee, Smokie, and The Eagles . The latest version on You Tube comes from Phish.
